PRESS RELEASE

Nevin Aladağ – INTERLOCKING

Exhibition from March 10 until June 30, 2024

Nevin Aladağ (*in Van, Turkey, lives and works in Berlin) is one of the most internationally renowned artists of our time. She has been represented at contemporary exhibitions like the Venice Biennale and documenta 14 with her installations, performances and video works. Music and sound, dance, textiles and ornaments play a key role in her work.

The survey exhibition Nevin Aladağ – INTERLOCKING in the Max Ernst Museum draws lines of connection with textile collages, sound sculptures, installations and videos between different patterns of artistic creation and their sociocultural backgrounds. The linking of such contexts is a main theme in Nevin Aladağ's extensive work.

The artist has produced new works specifically for the exhibition in the Max Ernst Museum. These include two works of the series Color Floating, in which she covers lamps with coloured nylon stockings, thus playfully combining everyday materials into a new aesthetic. In the Social Fabric, Floating Leaves series, she weaves various textiles to form a "utopian rug" that visually brings together the origins of the materials from distinct cultures.

Nevin Aladağ's latest sculpture series Resonator consists of objects comprises components of various string, wind and percussion instruments – from harp, mandolin and glockenspiel through acoustic and bass guitar to drum, didgeridoo, pan flute, tuba and trumpet. The sculptures, as fantastic generators of sound, seem surreal. The Resonator Strings, Wind and Percussion will be regularly activated by musicians during the period of the exhibition.

The installation Carpet Ball Game invites visitors to literally play with the artworks in an indoor basketball court themselves. The gymnastics balls covered with crochet work, the Crochet Balls, provide visitors with mobile seating. In addition site-specific installations with the Best Friends flags can also be seen outside the museum.

The INTERLOCKING aktiv space placed in the middle of the show invites visitors to try out the processes used by Nevin Aladağ themselves, such as the knotting of macramé wall hangings.

The exhibition is on display from March 10 until June 30, 2024, and curated by Madeleine Frey, Director of the Max Ernst Museum Brühl des LVR and Co-Curator Sophia Naumann, Curatorial Assistant.

Further information on the individual works of the exhibition can be found on our microsite:

INTRODUCTORY TEXT

In the overview exhibition INTERLOCKING, Nevin Aladağ weaves her oeuvre to form a course of perception and participation. She presents patterns of the everyday, which she stylises, multiplies and combines, in the ornamental works. In this way they develop a new visual impact. Structured in a similar way are the rug works, which combine patterns and forms in a collage-like fashion, thus resulting in a haptic overall composition. In the video works, she abstractly captures the sound of the cities, and dancers leave traces on the copper plates with their stiletto heels that generate their own sound. You can participate yourself in the Teppichballspiel (Carpet-ball Game). The artist emancipates the exhibition space and the artworks by calling upon, you, the audience, to play and to perceive art with all your senses. The seemingly surrealistic musical instruments are not only collaged objects, but are instead regularly activated by musicians, so that another level of experience is also added here.

The interlocking is also made evident in the exhibition through various patterns, site-specific installations and the activation of different artworks. In media across genres, such as photography, sculpture, performance, installation and video, the artist breaks open classic attributions and overcomes practised hierarchies. At the level of content, she calls upon us to free ourselves from normative appearances and poses questions revolving around identity and transformation.

INTERLOCKING ACTIVE

BE CREATIVE HERE!

Pick up a needle and thread and fill the empty spaces of the large wooden panels colourfully with the various yarns.

Continue the macramé works on the walls and contribute to the communal work.

Design your own little work of art with the small, wooden platelets. Thread the strings through the prepared holes and create different patterns.

The techniques are explained in the tutorials on the wall screens.

Have fun!
